Thank You For Smoking Assignment

1. Locate two different arguments that are presented in the movie. First identify exactly what is being argued for. 2. Break each argument down into Premise and conclusion form. 3. Identify which fallacy has been committed and give specific reasons for how the argument commits the fallacy. Be clear and detailed yet concise in your description of how the fallacy was committed. Please describe in detail which scene the argument is taking place and be clear who is stating what, so that there is no confusion to which character is making the argument!

Example:

In the scene called “the beauty of argument” Nick Naylor argues that X is good for the human spirit.

Nick states that:

P1: When we have X people get better
P2: When people get better, so does their spirit
C: Therefore X is good for the human spirit

The fallacy of false cause and effect has been committed in this argument.

This is because the nature of the fallacy is X and Y. The argument commits X any Y for reasons A, B and C.
